

New Yorkers For A Day

Havana, "We!" as it is, Can Give New York Points on Decoction of Soft Drinks and People There Profess to Enjoy Them and Free Ice Water, Too, Says a Cuban Visitor, Who Sympathizes With Dry New York.

Since the advent of Prohibition in America, the soft drink has come into favor, but we will have to take a lesson from Cuban expert soft drink mixers before we become the leading soft drink country in the world, said Tomas Acosta y Lima of Havana, who is at the Commodore on his annual summer visit.

"The milk of the coconut is a common and popular beverage, being simply poured out from the green nut; even when the nut is plucked from the trees on a warm day the milk is found to be cool and refreshing. Other fruits used for drinks in Cuba are the guasabana, or sour-sop, and the anona, or sweet-sop; these are the green prickly skinned fruits with white flesh and black seeds which are seen displayed on the cafe bars. The drink called ensalada (salad) is a beverage composed of various ingredients, the choice of which is determined by the fancy and skill of the composer."

The last thing in the world you'd expect a person to steal is a Bible, but the replacement of that inevitable red-edged copy of the Holy Writ you see in your hotel room wherever you go, amounts to 5 per cent, yearly, according to A. B. T. Moore, Chicago National Secretary of the Gideons Travelling Men's Religious Organization at the Commodore.

"Some take them, read them, become penitent and write in, asking how much the Bible is worth, or send a small sum along," he said. "Others merely take them."

There are about 416,000 Bibles in the hotels of the United States and Canada. They used to cost 35 cents each in carload lots; now they're 35 cents each. Even religion has gone up.

HERE'S ONE FROM VIRGINIA.

Joseph S. Smith, a salesman, who has just been travelling in the South, tells of one W. H. Stevens, a Confederate veteran ninety years old, whose home is in the eastern section of Bedford County, not far from Lynchburg, Va., who has enough descendants to populate a small hamlet if all of them were congregated in one place. He is the father of seven children, six of whom are living; has thirty-four grandchildren, eighty-four great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren, the total of his descendants being 127. Despite his advanced age Mr. Stevens, according to the salesman, who is at the Murray Hill, still enjoys good health, his faculties seemingly unimpaired, and he bids fair to live to see further increases in his tribe.

Tucson, Ariz., is one city in the United States that is without insects, such as mosquitoes, roaches or flies, but there are some ants. Tucson has only had a half inch of rain since Jan. 1. All the rivers are dry. The Chinese run grocery stores in the Mexican district. Tucson has a great public auto camp which occupies about six acres of ground. This auto camp has a wire fence around it and an attractive gateway. It is a city within a city, with running water, &c. Tucson built this novel auto camp for the accommodation of the thousands of motorists who motor through Arizona into other States. Those desiring to do so can drive their cars into this auto camp, remain there over night for 50 cents and have fire, police and every other protection that a city can provide. This information comes from Miss Laura Maxwell, who is at the Commodore and who stopped there overnight on her way to Los Angeles.

"The so-called 'dead' languages, such as Greek, Latin and Sanskrit, were studied first because the clergy needed to delve into the sacred writings in those tongues so that they could preach," William J. Hogan, Principal of the Lane Technical High School, Chicago, assures us.

Mr. Hogan has a conviction that it ought to be possible for any one who wishes to do so to earn a living while acquiring an education, provided his work is co-operative with his school life.
